Annual meeting and decoration of the Good Hope cemetery, four and a half miles northwest of Prosper, in the Parvin community, is announced for Saturday, May 13.

Rev. C. H. Wray of Prosper is president of the association. The business meeting and whatever exercises are to be held and the decoration of graves with flowers will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The president of the association wishes to remind all who have loved ones or friends buried in that old cemetery to take note of the date of the decoration and attend if possible. If you do, you may see that the cemetery is kept in a splendid way by the sexton.

Those interested are invited to make suggestions about the better conduct of the affairs of the association and the care of the cemetery. New officers are to be elected or re-elected for the ensuing year.

Rev. Mr. Wray says if those interested can not attend this important meeting and decoration exercises they are urged to send whatever financial help they feel like is their part to assist in keeping the cemetery cared for in a creditable way.

FIREMEN OF CITY TO OBSERVE DECORATION DAY

Since Sunday, May 7, is the time for the annual decoration of graves of deceased firemen by their comrades, Chief J. S. McKinney and other members of the local department are asking that anyone having flowers for this worthy purpose to call or get in touch with any member of the local volunteer department not later than 1:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Because of the late winter freeze many of McKinney's flowers were killed, and blossoming plants are not as numerous as in past years.

Those desiring to donate flowers are urged to call any member of the local volunteer fire department, who will be glad to call by your home and gather the bouquets, or if you prefer to have the flowers ready for them, they will call for them. There are approximately 40 graves of deceased firemen in Pecan Grove cemetery all of which will be decorated Sunday afternoon.

The annual memorial service will be held Sunday night, May 7, at 7:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church with Dr. R. L. Cowan, the pastor, delivering the sermon. The firemen will march in a body to the service after leaving the City hall, accompanied by exempt firemen, members of the city commission and others.

Miss Irene Marley is preparing a special musical program as a prelude to the evening's services.

AGED M'KINNEY SISTER HEARS OF BROTHER'S DEATH

Mrs. H. H. Craver, the aged mother of Mrs. G. W. Sullivan of this city, was greatly saddened Tuesday when she received a telegram from her native home back at Winston-Salem, N. C., announcing the death Monday night of her only brother, H. Wesley Foltz, aged 80. The deceased last visited his sister at McKinney some years ago when the National Confederate reunion was held in Dallas. Mrs. Craver's last visit back to her old home in North Carolina was in 1908.

The deceased was a devout Christian, being a member of the Moravian church. He was the only son in a family of four, the McKinney sister being the only one left now of the four. She celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday on March 9, of this year. Grandma Craver is greatly beloved by everyone knowing her. She and her late husband, H. H. Craver, a Confederate soldier, were pioneer settlers in the Climax community twelve miles east of McKinney. She still owns their old homestead at that place.

After the death of her husband, she came to McKinney to make her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sullivans, 1301 North College street.

All Efforts To Block Passage of Inflation Project Are Defeated

Washington, May 3.—The house of representatives today approved the administration inflation program as already passed by the senate.

* * *

Washington, May 3.—The powerful Democratic majority battered down two desperate Republican attempts to block house consideration Tuesday of the administration's farm relief-inflation bill and prepared to approve the currency expansion section Wednesday before sending the legislation to conference.

Overwhelming approval of procedure for consideration of the measure assured adoption of the inflation section. The farm bill to which it is attached then will be sent to conference for the composition of differences between the senate and house.

The first important test on the inflation provision came after the Democratic leadership had been blocked again by Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader, in an attempt to get unanimous consent to debate the proposal for six hours and then vote on the inflation issue. The Democrats then offered and obtained overwhelming adoption of a resolution to confine debate to five hours.

ABILENE MAN HELPS ROWLETT CEMETERY PIKE

W. N. Waters and Jake Giddings, two of Allen's most widely-known citizens, were in McKinney Tuesday working in the interest of the fund they are raising with which to fill in a gap of nearly a mile between the pike and the Old Rowlett Creek church and cemetery. They state that they expect the gap to be piked and in good condition for the annual decoration and memorial service to be held at this old Southwest Collin county cemetery by the third Sunday in May, which will be the twenty-first.

They showed this editor a letter they had just received from Chas. M. Christie of Abilene, who sent them a voluntary contribution of $10. Mr. Christie was born and reared at Allen, being a son of the late County Commissioner C. M. Christie Sr. He had seen a notice in his old home paper about the effort by Messrs. Waters and Giddings to have the pike extended to the church and cemetery and wanted to have a part in the commendable enterprise. Hence, he sent them the nice cash contribution.

Mr. Christie is in the building and loan business at Abilene. His contribution, coming as it did voluntarily, was doubly appreciated by Messrs. Waters and Giddings.

16-INCH BASS CAUGHT TUESDAY AT LAKE DALLAS

While E. O. Runnion and wife were fishing from their boat out at Lake Dallas Tuesday morning, Mr. Runnion had the unusual experience of catching a fine bass while fishing with a hook and line for perch.

Fishermen declare that it is out of the ordinary to catch a bass unless you are fly fishing—but evidently in this case the bass was hungry. At any rate, when this young McKinney fisherman threw his hook in the water, with a live minnow on it, the cork suddenly was submerged and there ensued a battle, with the game fish doing his best to make a getaway. The bass measured 16 inches.

While on their fishing excursion, this McKinney couple made a nice catch of eight perch, Mrs. Runnion catching the largest one which measured 13 inches. They declare fishing is well nigh perfect in the waters of Lake Dallas and that hundreds of North Texas anglers are visiting there each day.

Dr. Jas. A. Caldwell received a telegram last Wednesday announcing the death of his sister, Mrs. John Hale, at 9:40 o'clock that forenoon at her late home at Mesa, Ariz. She had been ill for sometime, and her death was expected by her McKinney relatives. The burial will probably take place about Friday with interment in the cemetery at Mesa, beside the grave of her husband, who preceded her in death about ten years.

The maiden name of the deceased was Cora Caldwell. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Caldwell, both of whom died a number of years ago at the home of their son, Dr. Jas. A. Caldwell, in McKinney, and are buried in Pecan Grove cemetery this city.

She is survived by two brothers, Dr. Jas. A. Caldwell of McKinney and Dr. A. J. Caldwell of Amarillo, and by several nephews and nieces.

Mrs. Hale was a woman of brilliant mind, an excellent writer and a gifted public speaker when she appeared on club programs or on church programs. She was very largely self-educated and was always a voracious reader and diligent student. She was a devout member of the Methodist church. Dr. Caldwell, her McKinney brother, received a very comforting telegraphic message soon after her passing from her pastor.

The relatives have the deepest sympathy of a host of friends in McKinney and from other parts of Collin county. In her girlhood and early young womanhood the deceased was correspondent for this paper from Climax. Her very interesting correspondence and news letters always appeared over her nom de plume of "Hazel Eyes."

She died just two months to a day after the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Dr. Jas. A. Caldwell, of this city.

EDITORIAL EXPRESSION

County Farm Agent Jack McCullough advises farmers, who are short of pasturage or who need a hay crop, to plant Sudan grass. It affords plenty of grazing and an abundance of hay. It is also an excellent drouth resisting crop and grows well in black land.

Able and convincing addresses were delivered before a joint meeting of the Senate and House of Representatives, at Austin, last week, by farm boys, farm girls and farm women to protect the efforts of the House of Representatives to eliminate from the appropriation bill support for the county home demonstration work. The way these people direct from the farm acquitted themselves illustrated that beyond a question of a doubt that county farm agents are doing something more than canning materials and terracing lands, says State Senator Joe M. Moore. Through the clubs, the members learn the art of public speaking and otherwise how to meet their less fortunate (or more fortunate if you so think) brothers and sisetrs of the cities and towns.

Under the leadership of Scott Hardy, secretary of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, that city has made a strenuous effort to get the state Highway Commission to finish up and retop Highway 24 from Greenville to the Collin county line. McKinney and Farmersville have also been cooperating. The State Highway Commissioners have announced that they will advertise for bids and let the contract probably at the next Highway Commission letting. This is one of the most badly needed pieces of highway work to be done that we know of in the state. It is like motoring over cobble-stones to travel on it. Judge W. R. Ely, chairman of the Highway Commission, of Abilene, and D. K. Martin, Highway Commissioner of San Antonio, are thoroughly in sympathy with the effort to rebuild this unfinished road.

I am a believer in the people's rule and in the right of petition. Ordinarily I favor the submission of any question to the people whenever there is a genuine desire on the part of any substantial number for submission. Indeed, I said as much in this Senate when speaking in behalf of the submission of the Eighteenth Amendment, adding that I would vote for submission, even if I were an antiprohibitionist, in order that the matter might be decided by the proper tribunal. That situation, however, is no precedent for this. The present condition is the result of paid propaganda and not of any spontaneous movement among the people. I am opposed, therefore, to submission under the present circumstances and at the present time. The country has been saturated with such subtle and such vicious misrepresentations regarding prohibition that it would be impossible to secure a fair hearing on the facts at this juncture. A feeling amounting almost ton an obsession has been widely established to the effect that the return of liquor will solve the farm problem, conquer the depression, supply the needed revenue, balance the Budget, and restore prosperity. The treatment of dry speakers by the screaming mobs in the galleries of both the great party conventions at Chicago is a sample of the difficulty at this time of securing a fair and decent hearing for prohibition.

A so-called referendum on submission was held in connection with the state-wide Democratic primary for the nomination of State officials in my home State of Texas last year. The drys ignored the referendum almost solidly. They voted for State officers, but refrained almost entirely from voting on submission. A state-wide meeting of Texas dry leaders advised the drys to take no part in the referendum on the very just ground that the sudden order for the referendum without prior notice and within less than six weeks from the primary in which it was to be held did not afford sufficient time for proper presentation and discussion and was resulting in widespread protest and confusion among Democratic voters. Although practically unopposed and left to dominate the situation the forces for submission polled less than half the entire primary vote, or 405,309 out of 973,041. The remaining 567,732 either did not vote at all on submission or voted against submission. Of this last number 450,114 did not vote at all on submission and 117,618 voted against submission. In my judgment, it can not be said that a vote of less than half the participants in that primary for submission was such an indorsement as I am required by the Texas election law relating to Senators to observe. In my judgment, a majority of all of those voting in the primary for all purposes was necessary before the [illegible] could be said to have been a representative expression of the will of the primary voters and such an expression [illegible] would be justified in following.—U. S. Senator [illegible]

CONGRESSMAN RAYBURN'S VOTES.

"I think it fundamental that when a large number of people, even though they do not constitute quite a majority want to pass upon the proposition of changing a fundamental law, they should be given an opportunity to do so," Congressman Sam Rayburn declares in a letter to one of his constituents giving his reasons for voting for the measure submitting repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the States.

"This is the reason why I voted to submit the question of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and not because I personally am for repeal," it is explained further.

The explanation was given after Mr. Rayburn's attention had been invited to a comment on his vote on the repeal and beer measures, appearing in a Dallas paper.

The record shows that Mr. Rayburn voted "no" on the measure to authorize sale of beer of 3.2 alcoholic content.

In his position on both questions, Mr. Rayburn was strictly in line with the attitude taken during the 1932 campaign by Sterling Strong of Dallas, and George B. Terrell of Alto, elected Congressmen-at-Large and J. H. (Cyclone) Davis, who was defeated with the endorsement of practically all of the prohibition leaders of Texas, as well as all other Texas Congressmen having the endorsement of the dry element.

Congressman Terrell is shown to have voted for the beer bill in the record made public.

Mr. Rayburn's letter, in part, follows:

"It was not that I was bound down helplessly to the party platform that I voted for resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment to the people. When the question of the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment was before Congress several years ago, we as prohibitionists contended that there was a large sentiment in the country that wanted the opportunity of passing on the question of whether or not the Eighteenth Amendment should be adopted as part of the Constitution.

"I think it is fundamental that when a large number of people, even though they do not constitute quite a majority, want to pass upon the proposition of changing fundamental law, that they should be given the opportunity to do so.

"This is the reason why I voted to submit the question of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and not because I, personally, am for repeal.

"I voted AGAINST the legislation to legalize beer for the simple reason that I believe to legalize the sale of beer is a violation of the Constitution as it now stands, and it is SOMETHING THAT I AM NOT GOING TO BE A PARTY TO."

Among the older residents to pass away recently in this section was Mrs. Laura Anderson of McKinney, who was nearing her eighty-fourth birthday when she died, April 18. Her parents brought her here when she was only a year old. she therefore was a Collin County resident for a little more than eighty-two years. When she came to Collin, it had then been organized only about five years, and Texas had only changed from a Republic to statehood, six years before. She was the last of a family of thirteen brothers and sisters to pass away, most of them heads of prominent families. She was an observer of the marvelous transformation of this highly developed agricultural county, literally from its virgin state of raw prairie and woodland. All honor to the memory of this dear old mother and her contemporaries, who fulfilled their mission so honorably and well. Their descendants and the oncoming generations owe them unending gratitude for their fortitude and privations endured for our good.

LARGEST GOVT. HOSPITAL FOR TREATMENT LEPERS IN THE UNITED STATES

MISS NETTIE J. STROUP OF NEW ORLEANS DESCRIBES THE INSTITUTION WHICH SHE OFTEN VISITS—WRITER IS NATIVE BORN COLLIN COUNTY YOUNG LADY—MANY PATIENTS, NOW BEING CURED OF ANCIENT DISEASE.

Following is the first of a series of five articles prepared especially for the Daily Courier-Gazette and the Weekly Democrat-Gazette by Miss Murray Brownlee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Brownlee, who is one of the efficient secretaries in the House of Representatives, at Austin:

Miss Nettie Stroup, head resident of St. Mark's Community House, corner North Rampart and Governor Nichols street, New Orleans, La., has by request, furnished this paper with the following interesting description of the United States Marine hospital, No. 66, located at Carville, La. This hospital is for the care and treatment of lepers of the United States, an ancient, loathsome disease, the dread of all civilized peoples. Texas has thirty-one lepers in the institution; Florida, 34; Illinois, 11; New England, 18; California, 75; New York, 41; Louisiana, 423. Miss Stroup was born and reared at Verona, about thirteen miles northeast of McKinney. She is well educated, both in a literary and musical way and has had special training in religious work. She has been abroad and spent several weeks at Jerusalem and other points in the Holy Land. She has for several years been head resident of St. Mark's Community house, said to be one of the most complete plants of its kind. It is the largest institution of the kind owned and operated by the Southern Methodist church. She has several other deaconesses under her supervision in the management of the institution, which includes church, free clinic, gymnasium, swimming pool, clubs for boys, girls, men and women, apartments for staff workers a church of nations, all maintained by Southern Methodists. She frequently visits the leper farm located on the Mississippi river, 100 miles from New Orleans. It embraces 400 acres and was formerly a beautiful southern plantation. Her article, descriptive of the leper colony is as follows:

Former Collin Young Lady

MISS NETTIE JAYNE STROUP of New Orleans

Hospital for Lepers at Carville, Louisiana.

The United States Marine hospital for lepers at Carville, La., is situated on the Mississippi river, twenty-five miles from Baton Rouge, and 100 miles from New Orleans, on a 400-acre tract of land which was formerly a beautiful southern plantation.

The grounds are beautifully designed by an experienced landscape gardner with shrubbery and trees characteristic to a tropical country. On this tract of land is now located one of the most modern and up-to-date hospitals supported by the United States government.

In this institution are five doctors, fourteen nurses, two chaplains and 200 clerks, mechanics and day laborers who devote all of their time looking after the comfort, happiness and health of these unfortunate soldier boys and others.

Many Patients.

Almost 400 patients are in the hospital for treatment, coming from nearly every state in the union, and from a score of foreign countries. Many of the patients were brought to Carville when the government decided to discontinue the leper colonies at San Francisco and on Penikee island in Boston harbor.

The largest number of patients admitted to the hospital came from the following states: Louisiana 423, California 75, New York 41, Texas 31, Florida 34, Illinois 11, New England 18.

Disease In 32 States.

It is a known fact that leprosy has been found in thirty-two out of the forty-eight states in the union, and that there are more than twelve thousand lepers living under the Stars and Stripes, chiefly in our island possessions. Out of the 725 patients that have received treatment in the Carville hospital 72.3 per cent were males and 27.7 per cent were females. This proportion holds true throughout the world. Of the 423 Louisiana patients eighty-three were negroes and 337 were white.

Since the establishment of the hospital in 1921, 107 of the patients have died, and only eighteen died of leprosy. Most lepers die of other complications. Leprosy generally runs its course in fourteen or fifteen years, leaving the patient blind, handless or footless.

Of the 725 patients that have been admitted to the leper hospital now, almost one-third are foreign born or of foreign born parentage, which indicates that the leper germ was in their system before they entered this country and became American citizens. The incubation period being from five to twenty years in adults. Leprosy is more destructive in the life of children and youth than in adults. Few children develop leprosy before nine years of age.

The average age of admission to the hospital is thirty-six years. The youngest patient admitted to the institution was one and one-half years and the oldest was 85 years.

Ancient Disease.

[illegible] was known to exist in China in the second century B. C. and spread from there to other parts of the world. In India it was quite generally known in the 14th century and in Egypt in 1500 B. C.

In the reign of Ramesses II it was introduced from Africa into Europe and then into America. Thus leprosy has spread until practically all the world has been affected by it.

Newman tells us that the first leper hospital was in Nottingham in 625, and in Ireland 869, while Simpson states that it reached Wales in 950. The first leper home was established in Norway in 1266 and the first United States hospital for lepers was established in Carville, La., in 1921. Although the State of Louisiana had carried on the work in the interest of lepers for twenty-six years prior to 1921 when the leprosorium was purchased by the federal government and became known as United States Marine Hospital No 66. Here all her soldier and sailor boys as well as her afflicted citizens are provided for.

First Case 1758 in America.

The first known case of leprosy in this country was in Louisiana in 1758. This died out and for over a period of 100 years there was no known case of leprosy among us. However, there was a recurrence in 1866 and from this date leprosy has very greatly increased until today there are nearly 2,000 lepers scattered throughout America.

California has been afflicted with leprosy by Chinese immigration, and Minnesota by Norwegian lepers. There was in Europe a decline of this disease in the 13th century and 14th century, A. D. There were several reasons for this decline. First, the law requiring segregation which was a very important factor in ridding the world of leprosy, and secondly, the "Black Death," which wiped out almost one-half of the population.

Just what the exact number of lepers are in the world is not known fully, but the American Mission to Lepers gives the following: China 1,000,000, Africa 525,000, India 500,000, Japan and Korea 102,000, South America 60,000, Siam 14,000, Philippines 10,000, United States 1,500 and other countries 32,500.

Infectious Disease.

The question is often asked "is leprosy contageous?" In these modern times leprosy is looked upon as not being necessarily a contageous, but rather an infectious disease. When sanitary precaution is taken one need not be greatly alarmed about contracting leprosy. In fact, Drs. Denny, Neff, Frietz and others who have had years of experience with leprosy in America and other countries tell us the medical profession do not know how the leper bacillus is transmitted to a nonleper except through the mucus membrane of the nose or throat or by personal contact.

Types of Leprosy.

There are three types of leprosy ,namely, nodular, anesthetic and mixed, the latter combining the characteristics of the first two. In the first, the skin is chiefly affected. In the second the nerves are affected. The effect of heat is unnoticed except as an after effect. When burn or scalds unnoticed at the time, owing to the anesthetic condition of the skin, showing the patient that the article touched was hot. The patient may bathe the feet in hot water and be unconscious of any pain or having scalded the feet until he comes to wipe them, then the skin will [illegible] and in most cases cause deformities. A hand drawn out of shape owing to leprosy is spoken of as the "Griffin Hand."

The third condition that follows is found in the penetration of the bones, causing a softening and resulting in the absorption into the system. Gangrene may set in necessitating amputation of the member. However, like the diseased bone and tissues in tubercular conditions amputation does not prove that the disease is cured, often it will break out in other places.

It is a fact that the nations that vaccinate are practically free from leprosy. while the nations that do not vaccinate are found to have many lepers within their border.

It is a certainty that unsanitary conditions are responsible in most cases for the spread of leprosy, yet it has been proven that the necessary conditions for the transmission of the disease are found only in such action as bring the sick into personal contact with the well.

Many Cases Cured.

For years new cures for leprosy have been offered from time to time, but since Dr. Denny took over the Carville colony, the old chaulmoogra oil treatment has been used and with great success. This oil has been used in the treatment of leprosy for the last century. It is said that chaulmoogra oil treatment the rheuma-defined program of medicated baths, plus foods high in strength and blood-building content plus day and night medical and surgical attention, all go to spell the cure of leprosy.

It was discovered that when a leper patient came to the colony who was suffering from rheumatism and began taking the chaulmoogra oil treatemnt the rheumatism disappeared. This discovery has led the doctors at Charity hospital in New Orleans to experiment with the oil in treating patients brought there who had rheumatism and it is proving quite successful, although the experiment has not yet been perfected.

Dr. Denny who is the guiding genius of the Carville colony is very efficient. He is regarded as probably the world's greatest leprologist. For twenty-five years he has been battling with leprosy. Many years were spent in charge of the great leper colony at Culion, Philippine islands, which cares for thousands of patients. If a medical conventions wants able data on leprosy Dr. Denny is called upon to supply it. If a foreign country desires data on how to fight leprosy within its borders, Dr. Denny is the man called upon.

The world is watching the successful work at Carville, for scientists from every civilized country have visited and are visiting Carville to see what the American scientists are doing in clearing the world of what has been looked upon as a scourge for centuries on top of centuries.

Other Nations Watching.

This year Dr. Daniel G. Lai of the National Central university of Shanghai, China, is at the hospital observing the work, studying under Dr. Denny, gathering data and preparing himself to return to his own country to wage war against leprosy. Dr. Lai's work in China will have a far-reaching effect.

There have been more than one hundred patients released from the hospital, cleared of the disease and others will be discharged soon.

Dr. Denny has worked faithfully with the Protestant chaplain and the Catholic priest at the colony to give the patients the religious facilities they desire. He has worked with the ex-service men in organizing an American Legion post within the colony. He has worked tirelessly with the patients in organizing and getting under way a splendid Little theater group.

The medical and civilian personnel attached to the hospital are kept content and happy. They have a swimming pool, tennis court, golf course, comfortable and attractive homes, and there are excellent highways to Baton Rouge and New Orleans when they want to get off the colony for a day.

Patients Are Happy.

Marvelous things have been done to keep the patients happy and contented. Tennis courts and a golf course, radios in every cottage, a library, recreation hall, two or three talkie programs each week, baseball games with outside teams, an orchestra equipped with the newest in instruments, current newspapers and periodicals, the finest of foods, Catholic sisters as nurses and one of Louisiana's most beautiful spots as their home through the months and sometimes year of their treatment.

In the cottages there are electric lights, fans, hot and cold water in tub and showers, flowers about the cottages. In each cottage a modern wire set that the patients may listen to beautiful programs. And for those patients who are able to work there are jobs available in the wards about the grounds and in the laboratory, and they are paid for their time. Monthly checks run from $15 to $20. Some of them are taught professions which will give them a vocation when they leave Carville cured.

Many friends and relatives visit the patients in the colony. Dr. Denny and his staff have worked religiously to remove the general dread of leprosy and to impress upon relatives and friends that they are absolutely safe in visiting their loved ones in the colony [illegible] train when their days visit is concluded.

Many Call Colony Home.

That patients here are happy and contented is indicated in the fact that a dozen of released patients have remained out in the world a month or so and then have returned and begged Dr. Denny to take them back into the colony. "It's better here than outside" they have told him and "We had rather stay here and work on the colony than live any where else." When the colony hasn't been filled to capacity Dr. Denny has let them remain but now the colony is full and it is impossible to accommodate other than actual patients.

A man was released from the colony two or three years ago after having been under treatment twenty-five years, and recently requested that he be permitted to return and live the remainder of his life in Carville. It was impossible to grant his request for there was no room. This man contracted the disease while a soldier in the Philippines and for months back in 1900 was isolated in a house on the outskirts of Washington, D. C., an armed military guard driving away the curious. Later he was transferred to Carville while it was still under state control and his cure was achieved in the chaulmoogra oil treatment under Dr. Denny's direction. He with his government pension and some wealth that he fell heir to returned to his Carolina home when released and now spends half the year in Carolina and the other half in California. "But Carville is paradise" he told Dr. Denny on a recent visit, for every time he starts across the country he stops at Carville to see his friends.

Types of Patients.

All types are in the colony, the school teacher and the doctor, the lawyer and the banker, the society woman and the men and the women of the underworld. There is a high-cast Chinese, another who is a splendid pianist, and still another who once thrilled audiences with his beautiful voice. And all of them turn eyes to the day in the future when they will step through the colony gates to go back to home and loved ones.

A woman who has been a missionary under the Methodist board to a foreign mission field for eighteen years was home on a furlough and it was discovered that she had leprosy. When told that she would have to be sent to Carville to the leper hospital, the doctor said he thought she would ask, "will there be plenty of service, private bath and nice surroundings? but instead she said, "do you suppose I can be of any service to the other patients? Soon she was at Carville leading the blind lepers to church, or reading to a half dozen of them on the porch of her little cottage. Just a little less than two years of treatment at Carville was necessary before three experts after careful examination discovered that she had lost all trace of leprosy.

This young woman has finished another entire period of service in the foreign mission field and is now home on furlough again, this time making a deputation tour of the United States just as if nothing had ever happened. A young fellow, the son of a missionary to India was sent back to the United States to go to college. He was intelligent, charming, graceful young man and formed many friends during his college life. War was declared and he went across seas. During the days of training the other boys in training seemed to be getting strongger all the time, while this young fellow was losing strength daily. He then sought the doctors' advice and was told to rest a few days. When resting did not improve his condition, a specialist examined him. He was stripped to the waist so that the doctor could prick his back with a sharp instrument. A patch as large as one's hand was found on his back where all sense of feeling had gone. He was set off in a little tent by himself with an orderly to watch him and carry food to him. One afternoon while he was sitting meditating in his tent, a big voice outside of his tent said to another: "Keep away from that tent unless you want to get leprosy" that was the first intimation that this soldier boy had that he was a leper. This young fellow was given admission to the Massachusetts Leper colony (this was before the federal hospital for lepers at Carville had been established). A special act of the legislature of Massachusetts had to be introduced and passed and Governor Coolidge signed it to get him admitted to this Penikee Massachusetts Hospital for Lepers. Plans had already been started for a federal hospital for lepers and now the Penikee lepers including this soldier boy are in Carville leprasorium.

Story of Senator Willett.

A soldier in the Spanish American war covered himself with such rare distinction while in the government service that when he returned to his home in the United States he was nominated senator of his state. He was elected for a second term. Then it was discovered he had leprosy and was sent to live in a little cottage where he did not have any nearby neighbors. A heavy wire fence was put around the little cottage and the gate locked against the public. His wife joined him in his isolation where she served as his constant companion and nurse. Later he was sent to Carville but he went there too late to be helped.

Chaplain Boyd, who is the Protestant [illegible] a letter to friends throughout the world asking them to pray that gifts might be given for this chapel. Dr. James W. McKean of Chiengmai, Siam, read this letter to his leper congregation and a vote was taken to join other groups in this prayer. One of the leper elders suggested that they could pray better if they had an offering first. The result was $41.01 joyfully given by these destitute leper people whose only money consisted of a small weekly food allowance and the few cents which they might earn by performing special tasks about the colony.

A few days later Lin An, one of the leper patients came to Dr. McKean and expressed regret that he had been absent on the day of the big offering and said he wanted to share in it. Dr. McKean said: "but you have no money which you can spare." "Oh yes" replied Lin An "don't you remember asking me to make a little cart to haul around one of the patients who has lost both feet, and that you have been paying me 4 cents a day for doing this? I've been saving my money. Please take this?" and he handed the doctor a pile of Siamese coins amounting to five dollars.

So the gift of the man who was disappointed because he had missed the offering was one of the first $5 contributions received at Carville for the American Leper church.

Colony's Equipment.

The American chapel in the leprosorium is neat and beautiful. The services held by Chaplain Boyd are helpful and inspirational.

The large kitchen for the colony is one of the most up to date in all of Uncle Sam's national institutions. It is centrally located, leading to it from every cottage are covered and screened in walks which protect the patients from rain and insects.

There is in connection with the hospital a modern dairy farm with sixty-eight beef cattle, which are fattened for home consumption, and seventy head of full-blooded Jersey and Holstein Milch cows which produce annually 47,277 gallons of milk, costing the government $12,000 yearly.

One can not go through this institution without realizing that those who are ministering day by day to these unfortunate lepers are truly doing the will of the Man of Galilee, who came to bind up the broken hearted, give liberty to the imprisoned, and make this world a brighter place in which to live.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

The vote was 22 to 6, compared with a vote Tuesday of 18 to 10 on engrossment. All such resolutions must obtain twenty-one votes in the senate and 100 votes in the house, in which body the resolution now rests.

BULLET ONLY CLUE IN DALLAS KIDNAPING

ABDUCTED BY MAN POSING AS POLICEMAN

Dallas, Texas, May 4.—A battered .38 caliber pistol bullet Wednesday night was the only tangible clue so far obtained by detectives as they sought the kidnapers and slayers of Nick Hodges Raspaskey, 57, cafe owner, whose body was found early in the morning.

Raspaskey was kidnaped Tuesday night from his hotel, 2501½ Elm, near Hawkins, by a swarthy man, wearing a mustache who posed as a policeman. His body was found at 5 a. m. beside the outer Kessler boulevard, about 500 feet east of South Beckley. He had been shot twice, one bullet entering below his left eye and lodging at the back of his skull from where it was removed, and the other passing through his left breast. His face and breast were powder burned, as also were his eye glasses, which were still on him when he was found.

Search of the dead man's clothes revealed he had been robbed of $10, a gold watch and a $5 gold piece, but police declared they believe the robbery was only incidental to the murder.

TOTAL OF 13,270 SCHOLASTICS IN COLLIN COUNTY

REPORTS COUNTY SUPT. HENDRICKS; GAIN 200 OVER LAST YEAR

A total number of 13,270 scholastics in the county, 226 more than last year's record, is revealed in the completed census rolls of Collin county schools, in the office of the county superintendent. The rolls of each common and independent school district in the county, numbering more than 100, have been carefully gone over, checked, corrected and made ready to be sent to Austin, by County Superintendent L. Dow Hendricks and his assistant, Malcolm Walters.

Last year's scholastics numbered 13,044, in comparison to the 13,270 this year. The records show that a total of 1,929 boys and girls of school age were enumerated in the McKinney Independent district, of which 1,689 are white and 240 colored pupils. This record reveals an increase of 54 over last year's figures.

Scholastics in common schools of the county number 6,894, while sixteen independent districts boast 6,376 boys and girls.

INSANITY CLAIMED FOR PREACHER WHO STRANGLED CHILD

WITNESSES AT HEARING ASSERTS PAUL OAKLEY ABNORMAL

Linden, Texas, May 4.—Spectacular methods of prayer and a family taint of insanity were bared by defense witnesses Wednesday in a concerted move to save Paul Oakley from a severe penalty for the devil slaying of Bernice Clayton, 3, afflicted with infantile paralysis.

His sister, Miss Beulah Oakley, testified he was accustomed to rolling over and over in the dirt while he prayed and could be heard a quarter of a mile. She told of the time he became converted to a strange faith in healing by supernatural powers, in which he became a leader in his remote East Texas neighborhood.

ROOSEVELT SLICES NATIONAL BUDGET ALMOST IN HALF

FIGURES SHOW BALANCING MAY BE ATTAINED IN YEAR

Washington, May 4.—Even should business get no better, President Roosevelt feels that he and his helpers through a saving of more than $1,000,000,000 in the ordinary expenses of government, will need only $120,000,000 to balance the long unbalanced budget during the next fiscal year.

From the treasury and from Lewis Douglas, budget director, Mr. Roosevelt has word that expenses next year will be about $2,320,000,000 and that income will amount to approximately $2,200,000,000.

These figures compare with a budget this year of approximately $4,000,000,000 and a deficit that on April 1 had mounted to $1,585,000,000.

ELD. R. C. HORN, 89, PREACHED ANNIVERSARY SERMON SUNDAY AT FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

VETERAN MINISTER HAS BEEN PREACHING FOR 65 YEARS—STILL IN GOOD HEALTH AND IN POSSESSION OF MENTAL AND PHYSICAL FACULTIES—BROTHER MINISTERS JOIN IN TRIBUTE TO HIM.

A congregation filling to capacity the main auditorium of the First Christian church was present at the 11:00 o'clock service Sunday morning, April 30, at the First Christian church to hear a sermon by the most venerable active minister in Collin county in the person of Eld. R. C. Horn who celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday on April 26.

It has been the custom of the pastor, Dr. Clifford S. Weaver, of this church for the last twelve or fourteen years to have Eld. Horn, who is a member of his congregation, to occupy his pulpit at the Sunday morning hour on the nearest Sunday to his birthday. Eld. Horn was in the pulpit at the announced hour beside Dr. Weaver and preached what was pronounced to be, one of his very best sermons on the theme of "Faith."

This grand old minister was born, April 26, 1844, in Tennessee, and has been preaching for sixty-five years. During much of this same period of time he also taught school and always actively engaged in farming until a few years ago, on account of his advancing age, he and his dear old wife concluded to retire. They sold their farm in the Vineland community, about seven miles northwest of McKinney, and bought a home on South Parker street, in which city three of their children are making their homes. Scores of old friends, not only of the Christian denomination but also from all the other churches were in the congregation to enjoy his sermon. Eld. Horn is still a logical thinker, an excellent public speaker whose messages are both edifying and informative to those who hear him. Unlike most men of advanced age, his portly figure is erect in stature. His snow white hair and long flowing white beard and ruddy complexion all, accentuated by his white shirt and suit, gave him a patriarchal appearance in the pulpit that was truly an inspiration.

For more than sixty years he has been leading a busy life, in a spiritual way and otherwise—in marrying young people, baptizing converts and receiving them into the church, instructing children in school in his earlier life and successfully engaging in farming, raising good livestock, poultry, gardening and trucking and in fruit raising.

He is a lover of country life and of flowers, whose example and leadership have been followed with much fidelity by the people of this county in a way that has uplifted its citizenship in everything that makes for human happiness, harmony among the people, support for the church and the schools and in every movement calculated to add to the joy of living in this world and hope for the life to come.

Dinner Served In Church.

At the conclusion of his sermon, Dr. Weaver announced the presence of many out-of-town visitors coming from Fort Worth, Dallas, Sherman, Van Alstyne and many other towns. He was also presented a cash offering that was voluntarily handed him by relatives and friends without a public collection being announced or taken. Mrs. Horn and their five children—four daughters and one son, were all present, as well as many grandchildren, nephews, nieces and other relatives. Dinner was brought by many and spread on the tables in the big dining room of the Educational building to which those who brought the dinner and invited guests were bidden.

At a special table Eld. Horn and wife had with them their children and practically all of the ministers of the city who came to the church at the close of their own services to help honor this beloved old nestor of preachers of all denominations in the county.

Eld. Horn is loved and honored by his brother ministers as well as the lay membership of all the churches. He is always in a happy, cheerful mood and this editor never saw him seeming to enjoy an occasion more than this time.

The home where Mrs. Browning passed away was the one she came to as a bride nearly sixty-four years ago.

Funeral services were conducted at the Presbyterian church on Thursday, April 6, at 2:30 by the pastor, Rev. John Gaines of Lucas assisted by the pastor of the Baptist church. Rev. R. L. Bonner of Anna. Pallbearers were her grandchildren as follows: Edwin and Ray Browning, Joe D. Cassady, Eldred Wallis, all of Melissa, and Gilbert and Jim Browning of Holdenville, Okla.

Burial followed by the side of her husband in the Melissa cemetery. The grave was a mound of beautiful flowers.

Mrs. Browning was born in Perry county, Mississippi, June 20, 1857, being at the time of her death, 81 years, 9 months and 14 days old. She came to Texas with her widowed mother, Mrs. Hespire Holder, and other relatives in 1864. She became a Christian and joined the Methodist church at the age of 16. She worked in the church until it was thrown off the circuit at which time she joined the Presbyterian church and remained a faithful member as long as she lived.

Miss Holder was married October 28, 1869, to J. W. Browning, who had passed away at his home, January 26, 1912. Five children of this pioneer couple are deceased.

The surviving children are: Duncan Browning of Holdenville, Okla.; Wm. D., Dewitt C., Joe D. and Mrs. Lorrain Cassady of Melissa and N. C. of Abilene. She is also survived by twenty-six grandchildren, twenty-three great-grandchildren, a cousin who was also a foster sister, Mrs. Callie Harpole of Melissa. The only remaining member of the family who came to Texas together. Among the out-of-town relatives and friends who attended the funeral were: Byron Caraway and wife Frisco; Mrs. Jetta Caraway, Desert; Mrs. Ada Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Woods and Miss Mildred Caraway of Sherman, Charlie Nichols of Tom Bean, Dr. and Mrs. Bob Walker, of Celina; Mrs. Homer Coffey, a niece of McKinney, Mrs. Thurman Melugin, a great niece of Fort Worth, Walter, Morris and Duncan Holder of McKinney.

Mrs. Madora Porter—In Memoriam.

Mrs. Madora Porter, aged 88 years, passed away at the home of her son, G. W. Porter, and family, here recently. She had made her home with her son for nearly nineteen years. Mrs. Porter was only sick a few days and fell asleep as easily and quietly as any one ever did. She had had a slight cold for four or five days and stayed in bed Saturday, feeling worse. In the afternoon a doctor was called, but she was apparently doing all right. Sunday morning she felt well enough that the grand children went to Sunday school. About 10:30 Mrs. Porter quietly turned over and went to sleep to be with her loved ones in glory that she loved so well.

Funeral services were held at the Baptist church Monday afternoon, March 6, conducted by her pastor, Rev. Thos. Sterck, pastor of the Methodist church and by Rev. R. L. Bonner, pastor of the Baptist church. Mrs. M. P. Martin of Tyler sang a special song by request.

A special number was also sung by Messrs. Arlyn Farley and J. T. Shelley, Mesdames M. P. Martin and J. T. Shelley, "Golden Bells." Rev. Bonner, who had visited often in the home of the Porter family and knew Mrs. Porter intimately preached the funeral sermon.

Burial followed in beautiful Melissa cemetery beside the grave of her beloved granddaughter, Mary Edna Porter, who died last fall.

Madora Ferrell was born in DeSota county, Mississippi, May 20, 1844. She was married to James Porter at Salem, Mississippi, in 1864. He lived in Mississippi, all of her married life, her husband passing away January 11, 1904. Mr. and Mrs. Porter were the parents of twelve children, four of whom died in infancy. Three other children who are deceased are: James Porter, who died in the McKinney City hospital a few years ago, Tom Porter of Waco and Sam Porter of Fort Worth.

The surviving members are Mrs. R. L. Orman of Lockney, Texas; Mrs. A. B. Hoover of Hudsonville, Miss.; A. G. Porter, of Dallas; G. W. Porter and Miss Beatrice Porter of Melissa. Her brothers are Steve, Tom, Nick, Joe and Gra Ferrell and sisters, Mrs. Martha Harmons and Mrs. Anna Young, all of Oklahoma.

Mrs. Porter was converted and joined the Baptist church when she was thirteen years old and lived in that church until after she married, when she joined the Methodist church with her husband and lived a consecrated member until she died.

Granny Porter as she was lovingly called by everybody, loved her grandchildren with whom she lived. She took a great interest in all their activities and the affairs of the community at large. She was very active for her advanced age and enjoyed nothing better than to get out and visit with her neighbors and also walked every day when the weather was fit over the highway to meet the mail carrier, Mr. Lacy, and visit her partner, Mrs. S. H. Parris, on whose place the family have lived twenty years. She especially loved her granddaughter, Miss Mary Edna Porter, who died only last fall and for whom she grieved daily.

Recipe For Strawberry Preserve

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dysart who live on their well-improved Sunnybrook farm, located about ten miles north of McKinney were business visitors this week and while in this city dropped in our office to leave a delicious strawberry preserve recipe, which Mrs. Dysart described as "A new but old recipe for strawberry preserves." Mr. and Mrs. Dysart who are noted for their variety of farm products and cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry, vouch for the recipe. It follows:

"Take same amount of sugar as berries; put in vessel a layer of berries and layer of sugar; let come to boiling point, then time the boiling for twenty minutes, pour in a shallow vessel, let stand a few hours, then can."

Mrs. Louis Bourn of Plano, who has been a patient in the McKinney City hospital, is improving and will soon be able to return to her home.

YOUR HOME TOWN

SEEN HERE AND THERE.

Those golfers, who are visiting the Hill Crest club links these afternoons, come back praising the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Welch, in charge of that recreation al center . . . You'll never find a prettier natural golf course in the southwest than Hill Crest . . . There's a lot of "naturals" in this city-wide championship tourney, if you ask us . . . For instance, Wilkins Conyers barely nosed out his brother, Lovejoy; in a match Tuesday . . . Then there's the two golfers of the same initials, W. W. Taylor and W. W. Hall, who are paired . . . To say nothing of the "Pair of Jacks," Jack Warden and Jack McCullough, who played Tuesday; neither one knows who won . . . But the match between the two Carls, Carl Speck and Carl McDonald, and the one between H. D. Gamble and Chandler Atkinson should be the high lights of the first round . . . Those love birds and attractive ages in the lobby of the Ritz catch the eye of every visitor . . . Alvin Hall, dressed up, visiting downtown . . . Mr. and Mrs. Ceman Mitchell pass by . . . There go Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sisco . . . Burt Moulden talking with a friend.

AS BAD AS WAR.

There comes to our desk a graphic illustration, vividly picturing automobile smashups, entitled "How 20,000 Die Every Year On Our Highways." Beginning with these words, "As bad as war," the story and accompanying scenes declared that automobile accident deaths in 1932 are conservatively estimated at 20,000, a death every 25 minutes every day, every night. To give you some comparison as to this high rate, we need only remind you that in the American army during the World war one soldier was killed in action or died from wounds every twenty-four minutes during our participation. Such vivid illustrations should cause all of us to stop and think when we get under the steering wheel of our cars. It pays to be careful every minute we are at the wheel of our car.

OUT AT HILL CREST.

We've lived in and around McKinney all our life, but we don't recall as great interest in golfing as is being evidenced here at this time. A total of eighty-six golfers in our home town are entered in the tourney, sponsored by the McKinney Junior Chamber of Commerce, to decide the champions of three flights. The qualifying round was completed last week while the first round started Monday. The first round must be completed this week. When you consider the fact that almost 100 golfers enter a tourney in a town of McKinney's size—that's a record, in our opinion. Employment is aided, too, since caddies are supplied from a list of the unemployed of the city by the local R. F. C. committee. Pres. W. P. Abernathy of the Jaycees and Carl Walker, chairman of the committee arranging the tourney, have a right to feel a "little chesty" due to the great interest already shown. If you want to see some fun and have a real enjoyable time, motor out to the Hill Crest club links any afternoon this week and see these golfers vieing for honors in this match play.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME.

While Texas does not have "daylight saving" time yet most Texans are affected in one way or another by moving of clocks ahead one hour in the states of New York, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, North Dakota, Maine, Connecticut, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Rhode Island and West Virginia. Clocks in those states were run up one hour at 2 a. m. Saturday. Industries in other states are affected, to say nothing of radio owners, who will now get some of their favorite air programs one hour earlier each day. Keep this in mind when you turn on your radios, if you don't want to lose out on your favorite air broadcast.

50 YEARS OLD.

Texas university has just observed its fiftieth anniversary. Fifty years' service, such as has been accomplished in behalf of education by Texas U., is a wonderful record. However, three institutions in Texas—all denominational schools—are much older than the university at Austin—Baylor at Waco (Baptist); Austin College at Sherman (Presbyterian) and T. C. U. at Fort Worth (Christian).

FORTY YEARS SINCE ROBBED BY HENRY STARR

H. R. (Geewhillikins) Childress, a widely known, friendly farmer of near Weston, was in McKinney, Tuesday, May 2. Meeting up with this editor, our good friend said, "This is one date that I never forget, because forty years ago today, May 2, 1893, I was held up and robbed by Henry Starr, famous bank and train robber at Pryor Creek, Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory, before Oklahoma statehood. Myself and a friend were escorting a couple of young girl friends down the street. My young lady friend said that she believed that they were holding up the train and robbing it as we could see nearby and from which we heard shots. We walked down that way when suddenly we were commanded to throw up our hands after a bullet whizzed by close to my head. At first I was very angry. But, when it dawned on me that we were in the midst of a real robbery, I quickly got in a good humor and held up my hands. The fellow who searched me got $3.50 in cash. While he was robbing my companion, I secretly passed my watch to my girl, Miss Maggie Cunningham and told her to drop it in her bosom which she did and saved it. Every other man in the hold-up lost his watch as well as his cash."

"Geewhillikins" says that Starr was later given a twenty-five year penitentiary sentence, but in the course of time was released and only about three years ago was shot and instantly killed while engaged in robbing a bank at Harrison, Arkansas.

"Geewhillikins" was a witness at the trial of the robbers and while on the witness stand, by invitation, picked out the two robbers that held up him and his friend and their girls, taking what little cash they had in their pockets and his friends' watch.

"Geewhillikins" says, "Tell your readers that I am some older than I was forty years ago, but I believe that I can throw any man in the Weston community yet in a wrestling match."

Chief Warden came home today to attend the funeral of his from Sulphur, Indian Territory, brother, F. M. Warden, who was buried today in Pecan Grove cemetery, under the auspices of the Knights Templar. The funeral procession was one of the longest ever witnessed in McKinney.

Dr. Ben E. Throckmorton has let the contract to the Frank L. Woods Construction company for cement sidewalks in front of his big two-story new brick sanitarium and residence, corner of South Tennessee and Davis streets.

W. H. Williams of Anna renews for the Weekly Democrat-Gazette for another year in advance.

Dr. E. S. Blythe of Blythe's Chapel went to Dallas today to hear United States Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey speak.

When you want a good smooth shave and first class haircut visit the East Side Barber shop, Sam A. Cotner, proprietor.

OUR PROFESSION

We who are engaged in funeral directing like to consider our calling a profession, as well as a business. We feel that the amount of technical training required for this service, as well as our ethical responsibility to our patrons, entitles us to professional standing.

This feeling is reflected in our attitude towards those we serve. Our relation with our patrons calls for sympathetic understanding of their needs and desires, and a reverent regard for their comfort and welfare.

The funeral director should be selected with the same care as is shown in choosing a physician or lawyer. Training, experience and moral integrity are of paramount importance.

In order to better serve the people in the Josephine and Nevada communities we have been trying to find some one in one of those communities to represent us, one who would appreciate our idea of service. We are pleased to announce that Miss Laura Caldwell of Nevada has been added to our staff and will at all times be pleased to serve you to the best of her knowledge and ability.
